This was a last minute, quick chat with Laura White to discuss Safe & Wellbeing Reviews.

Background:

This is part of the work that CCG are doing as part of Sae & Wellbeing work, they are developing parent panels.

It is related to the national work on reviewing and monitoring the care and safety of people with learning disability and/or autism who are in inpatient care. This is also part of the NHS response to deaths at Cawston Park. The NHS website states: .. a national review, confirmed by Claire Murdoch, National Director for Mental Health is being undertaken to check the safety and wellbeing of all people with a learning disability and autistic people who are being cared for in a mental health inpatient setting. This includes people whose care is being funded by clinical commissioning groups (CCGs), specialised commissioning and provider collaborative commissioning. Our expectation is that individual reviews of care will be completed early 2022.

Undertaking these reviews is very much a priority for NHS regional and national teams. Every part of the system will have a role in ensuring that they are done swiftly and diligently.

Themes emerging from the review findings will be shared with NHS England and NHS Improvement regional and national teams. The regional and national teams will make sure the learning from the reviews is used to develop any new guidance and to shape the work being delivered.

Dorset CCG are reviewing 18 adults and providers are reviewing those under 18. There will be a presentation to a panel to share findings.

Laura asked if either of the forum had a parents (expert by experience) who would be part of the panel.

This needs to be a specific group – those with experience of a child in secure setting. We haven't put a parent rep forward for this.

Elaine has a parent in mind and will approach them.
